Prime Minister Counted in National Population and Housing Census

Winsome Young, national population and housing census coordinator for the Corporate Area prepares to interview Prime Minister Bruce Golding at his office on May 18. The census, which is undertaken by the Statistical Institute of Jamaica (STATIN), started last month. It counts all persons who are living in Jamaica and will continue for several months. The information gathered will inform policy decisions that impact national development.

Census 3

Prime Minister Golding Counted in National Population and Housing Census

Prime Minister Bruce Golding welcomed national population and housing census taker, Winsome Young, to his office on May 18 where she conducted his interview. Ms Young is the Statistical Institute of Jamaica (STATIN) area coordinator for the Corporate Area. She assured Mr. Golding that the census which started in April is going smoothly, and that all persons living in Jamaica will be counted whether they are living in a home, an institution or homeless. The information gathered will inform policy decisions that impact national development.
